Deadline for July newsletter - Monday 20th June

Message from the Chairman

Well dear u3a friends this is my last Newsletter piece as chair. On the 8th June I will be standing down from the committee after five years. As you probably know I should have retired after three years but that thing called a pandemic hit and all normal life and plans went out of the window.

It has been a pleasure to be part of such a friendly, welcoming group with so many of you willing to go the extra mile to support our monthly meetings and all our groups. We have several new volunteers to be on the committee and I know they will do an excellent job.

I am going to continue to be Eastwood & District link person for the Nottinghamshire Network and I will report back to the committee when necessary; apart from that I am putting my feet up and savoring the chance to do some different things.

Thank you all for your support over the years and to those of you who have said some very kind things to myself and the committee regarding our efforts to 'keep things going'.

All the best to you all, Chris

SELF-HELP IS AT U3A'S CORE AND MUST BE PRESERVED

Did you read the article by Eric Midwinter in the Third Age Matters magazine?

Eric was the founder of the u3a and his article makes for very interesting reading.

He outlines the Mutual Aid principles of the u3a; members taking an active part.

This is a self-help charity, run by the members for the members.

VEGETABLE GARDENING

Open Garden Visit, 17 June

The vegetable gardening group has decided to make the June meeting a group visit to one of the local open gardens. The garden is at 334, Belper Road, Stanley Common. It is open to the public on Sunday 19th June, but the owners have confirmed they will open the garden for a group of up to twenty of us on Friday afternoon, 17th June. The cost to us is £8, which includes refreshments. As we are a small group, we are inviting members of the U3A who would like to be part of the visit to contact me on candamcg@gmail.com to make up the numbers.

The owners have made a beautiful garden, including an organic vegetable garden, from what was once a 10 acre open-cast mine. Its many features include a laburnum tunnel, rose and wisteria domes, old workman's hut, wildlife pond and much more.

Please email me if you would like to join us on the visit. I can organise car share so if you want a lift, or can offer one, please let me know in your email. Ann McGillivray

FLASH MOB

As part of the u3a's 40th anniversary celebration there are going to be a number of events happening across the county. These will culminate in a Flash Mob in Nottingham Market Square on Saturday September 24th.

The Dukeries u3a are organizing this as they have a member with dance experience who is willing to organize it. It will be a simple routine which will be recorded in order to give us chance to practise. There will also be 'live' sessions available nearer the time.

If any members are interested in participating please contact me and I can give you the details. It should be really good fun and finish off the week with a surprise.

If you aren't sure what a Flash Mob is click on the link below. Don't be put off by the age and athleticism of the participants in this clip. Flash Mob is for everyone.

Looking forward to hearing from those of you wanting to try something new.

May Monthly Meeting Report

A chance discovery of a book - an art teachers memoir of life in an English girl's school found in the back of a cupboard - led to some amazing and quite unique revelations about life on the Home Front during the Second World War. Mary Smith former head of Maidstone Grammar School for Girls did just that and could hardly contain her enthusiasm in telling us about it. The year was 2013 when the discovery was made. It contained the delightful drawings by Helen King art teacher at the school of life as she experienced throughout the length of the war and what a life they led. The main discovery were the Tunnels dug out beneath the grounds of the school where school life was carried out. Lessons took place with girls sitting in long rows on benches - extremely difficult teaching and learning conditions by today's standards, but they coped. When the teacher wished to get to the far end the instruction went up "knees left" so the manoeuvre could be achieved. The drawings showed a variety of school scenes - girls in gas masks playing netball, girls running everywhere - when the sirens went you had to move quickly - putting up the netting at windows to protect against flying glass and the sheer joy of taking it down when it was all over.

The Imperial War museum is keen to get its hands on the original art work, but Mary is keeping it for the time being as further tunnels or "Trenches" as the girls called them are still being discovered. It was a delightful and unique find and Mary reflected this in her talk.

The book containing all the art work is available by contacting MarySmithJones@hotmail.com or www.mags.org/war It costs £12.

A LITTLE MISUNDERSTANDING

I was sitting in the waiting room of our doctors' surgery the other day when an Eastern European looking gentleman entered and walked over to speak to our rather formidable receptionist.

'Name?' bellowed the dragon. 'Ivor Chestikov' the stranger meekly replied.

'Name please?' she asked again but louder and more demanding this time. 'Ivor Chestikov' he politely replied a second time.

'Didn't you hear me, sir? I asked you for your name' she roared becoming more agitated by the second.

'Ivor Chestikov' he replied for the third time

By this time the poor receptionist was breathing fire and about to lose control.

'I have no desire to know what's wrong with you - that's the doctor's job so for the last time will you please just give me your name if it's not too much trouble'.

'My name is Ivor Chestikov'

'Well why didn't you say so in the first place?' asked the dragon.

'I did but you must have misunderstood me'

'So Mr Chestikov, what do you want? Are you ill?'

'No I'm quite well-thank you. I just came here to register with the practice'.

ALL THINGS ENVIRONMENT (ATE)

We asked "What is a green wardrobe?"

This is Audrey's answer

IN THE CHURCHYARD IN JUNE

The towering churchyard trees are summer heavy, and pregnant with their pendant, fertile seeds which cluster close on every branch, a bevy which will provide for next years fecund need.

The seeds are nature's embryos and waiting for snow and ice to pass. Then spring awakes and seasons form anew, each year creating a continuity for our soul's sake.

The waiting earth will open for their bounty
When it shall nurture seed and sapling green.
Like to an open womb in nature, flouting
the harshest winters, still fresh life appears.

And shall there come a time when, one day waking,
we sense the ending of returning life?
When furies are unleashed beyond our knowing.
When nations call dissent and rage is rife.

I pray the gods of nature and of reason may always then prevail to conquer strife;
to let th'unceasing flow of every season
stream on, to nurture and enrich our lives

For how can we begin to face a future
that's desolate of hope and of belief?
It's my heart seeks communion with nature.
My soul yearns for the splendour of the trees.

CELEBRATING u3a WEEK

This year u3a week is celebrated between 17 – 26th September.

2022 is the 40th anniversary of the u3a movement in the UK and some events are being set up nationally:

- Picnic in the Park on Wednesday 1 June;
- reveal of the Anniversary Quilt later in June with displays in each of the devolved countries in the UK
- a meeting of the u3a science network in July which will include an eminent scientist;
- a one day conference on Research and shared Learning carried out
- u3a members will also be offered the opportunity to attend an afternoon of lectures at the Royal Institution on 31 October;
- in December we'll discover how many trees have been planted in the u3a Wood.

Make sure you get involved!

A truck loaded with thousands of copies of Roget's Thesaurus spilled its load leaving New York. Witnesses were stunned, startled, aghast, stupefied, confused, shocked, rattled, paralyzed, dazed, bewildered, surprised, dumbfounded, flabbergasted, confounded, astonished, and numbed.
